“Good morning, you old crow”

Monday, July 29, 2013

As I went outside my house today, I saw a big old crow that was chasing away all our pretty blue birds, cardinals, finches and morning doves and was chowing down on our bird seed. I yelled loudly “Good morning, you old crow!” and looked up to see an elderly gentleman walking by looking rather surprised.

I assured him that I was talking to the BIRD, not him. We both laughed and went on our way. I really must stop talking to the wildlife.

What a wonderful story! The other day I (and my daughter) saw a big huge bird way up in the sky - maybe a crow, maybe even a hawk or other bird of prey - being chased by three or four little birds who were taking turns harrassing it as it flew. I could hardly believe my eyes. Mother nature can always throw me for a loop. Oh, and I talk to the animals, too. ;-)

I talk to my computer, kitchen stove and lots of things outside too, so I have to be careful, I guess it is a blessing that my DH is so hard of hearing, he would really wonder about me

Brooklyn,
That's really FUNNY!!! Don't stop talking to the wildlife, as we won't have these belly gut laughs!!!

LOL

Be blessed,

Now that's funny! Reminds me of the time I saw this car driving by and casually mentioned to my husband "boy that man's wife is a real dog". He did a double take and realized I was kidding when he looked in the car and saw a dog in the passenger seat.
