Checking in from My World Outside of Spark

Thursday, June 14, 2018

Thank you to those who still send me notes and goodies.

I want to assure everyone that I am fine.

I still follow the Spark principles and in a few months will mark 9 years of maintenance.

Joe and I have been traveling a LOT both alone and with family, especially the grandchildren who are now 16-23.

Last month we toured the Baltic countries.

My paternal grandparents emigrated from Lithuania over 100 years ago.

Pictures and details are here on my website

Another milestone – A few weeks ago our grandson graduated from the University of Rhode Island with a degree in both Mechanical Engineering and Chinese. Now he is going to China for an internship and further study.

Here are my 3 generations of engineers.

I have become more active in volunteer work. The need is very great. I have never been in the group of “I’ve got mine the heck with everyone else” and since I am retired I am busy trying to make my corner of the world a better place.

I wish you all the best and hope you continue to make progress and fulfill your goals.

I don't know if you will see this, but glad to see you are ok. I have not been on sp in a long time but decided to check in on some of my friends. I am glad you are volunteering - that is most of my time also along with some traveling. Wishing you the best, friend!

I missed this blog when you posted, but I'm glad I found it today, as I have wondered how you're doing at this very concerning time in world history.

Congratulations on your grandson's graduation and about all the other good things going on in your life! Engineers are awesome! Most of my Japanese businessmen English students are engineers, so smart and contributing a lot to society. What an opportunity of a lifetime for your grandson to study in China!

Thank you for volunteering and making our world a better place. I wish you good health, peace, and continued happiness. Hope to see you here again sometimes.

Thanks for visiting! It all sounds good. My great-grandparents on one side were from Lithuania as well-Lithuanian Jews. How wonderful that you are doing volunteer work to give back.

In many ways you remind me of my beautiful mother, who just passed away. She too always wanted to make the world a better place. I am sending you in a private message the link to her obituary. Sadly, the last years of her life, Alzheimer's took away the mother I knew, but she is the one I will always remember, not the shell left behind by such a horrible disease.

So happy that you've checked in! Love the update! Congrats on grad and all other adventures with grands and family! Life is a blessing and adding just a little Spark is sometimes enough. I always wonder about friends who go missing here and so happy to see your check in. Congrats on those 9 years! Wowsy! Wowsy! Wowsy! I smile with end of your travels! And thank you for giving back in so many ways!

Live on! Spark on!

It's so good to see you here. I've cut back on some SP aspects, so I'm especially glad that I took a look at the friend-feed screen just now. I didn't realize that you'd been traveling up a storm, but not surprised. The 'three generations of engineers' photo is beautiful; Joe looks excellent. I'd love to know what types of volunteer work you've added to your slate. I made changes in mine a couple of months ago -- cut back, but still pitching in in less demanding ways for now. All of the writing and art classes and workshops of the past year have me in thrall and I've increased my efforts. Once I become more proficient, I'll step up the volunteering again. Phebe was in NY last week. We got together on Tuesday for lunch, the Central Park Carousel and some sketching in the park. She is so good and has been generous with tips and suggestions.

Great to hear you are doing so well. Spouse on second week of two-week river cruise in France which he got interested in after I showed him a couple of your blogs about river cruises. Unable to travel, I am enjoying his trek virtually through the daily photos. Now on to your website travel photos and narrative.
